Above all, I am in the first place motivated, widely-interested, positive minded and ambitious. In addition, rational and logic thinking and looking at the global picture are very important to me. I am an active and intensively participating team member. I will always consider pros and cons before taking a decision and am not afraid to take responsibility. Leading and managing a group feels comfortable and natural.

As a side note, being sportively active and discovering new things are important for me.
